Brand overview

Tomato is a restaurant aggregator and online food delivery company that helps people discover food, browse restaurants, and order meals quickly and conveniently.

Layout

Minimalist interfaces with large, high-quality food photography and prominent search bars.

Brand tone

Witty & Humorous: Clever puns and cheeky jokes, especially on push notifications and billboards.

Conversational: Copy that feels like a text from a close, food-loving friend rather than a corporation.

Trend-Jacked: Quick to jump on viral internet memes, pop culture moments, and major sporting events.

Empathetic: Deeply understands consumer pain points, like late-night cravings or rainy-day delays.

Target audience

Gen Z & Millennials: Tech-dependent individuals aged 18–35 who value convenience and instant gratification.

Working Professionals: Busy corporate employees who rely on quick office lunches or hassle-free dinners after long shifts.

Students: College hostellers and young adults looking for budget-friendly meals, late-night bites, and pocket-friendly discounts.

Urban Foodies: People who love exploring new cuisines, tracking restaurant trends, and reviewing dining spots.
